Dear Readers,

We've always believed in sharing groundbreaking ideas openly, but to keep Beyond Blue Beam thriving—and to bring you even deeper, more exclusive content—we're making a big change: Starting next week, full access will require a small subscription fee.

Here's what that means for you:
– First Month Trial: Just $1.99 to unlock everything.
– Ongoing Access: After that, it's $4.99/month—less than a paperback book for weekly deep dives into other realms.
– Free Weekly Post: Not ready to subscribe? Every Sunday, we'll still release a free Beyond Blue Beam article so you never miss out entirely.

This shift isn't just about sustainability—it's about you. Your support lets us dig deeper, research harder, and keep this community independent. If you've ever shared our work, commented, or just quietly followed along: thank you. Beyond Blue Beam exists because of you, and with your help, we'll keep pushing further.

Stay tuned for the official launch date—and if you have questions, hit reply. We're all in this together.

With gratitude,
The Beyond Blue Beam Team

EDIT: We've noticed some confusion about Beyond Blue Beam, and we want to clear things up!

Beyond Blue Beam is written by a separate team, it is a premium section of benjaminfulford.net—it was included for FREE in your subscription (if you have one).

Why the change? The research, depth, and exclusive content in BBB require extra resources, so it has its own small fee.

We appreciate your understanding.

Moving on,

Welcome back to another episode of Beyond Blue Beam. Our journey into the realms of mystery and intrigue continues. Is it fiction or reality? As the Moody Blues say, “Red is grey and yellow white, but we decide which is right and which is an illusion.” You decide! Share your thoughts in the comments, and feel free to contribute additional insights or information. Kindly do not criticize the writers with negative statements, unless you are an expert on a certain topic and can verify it.
Meanwhile, relax and enjoy the read.

Today, we embark on another thrilling journey through time, space, and possibly even alternate realities.

As usual, buckle up for an intriguing exploration of diverse topics.

We will venture into several different realms both in this world and beyond….

Today we start with several of the latest News Updates that hopefully are of interest in this 3D Matrix.

Here is some interesting information regarding the JFK assassination.

JFK Assassinated by CIA X-Protect Aerospace Group for sharing the UFO File with Russia to try and avoid World War III…Historical Watergate Lawyer Blows the Whistle…!

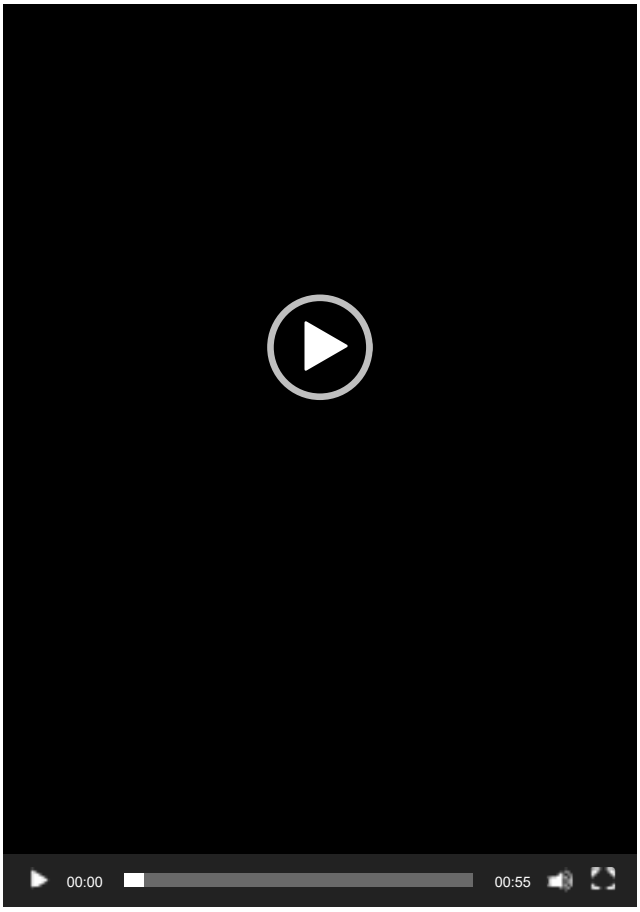
Less than a month after JFK’s assassination, Lyndon Johnson made a strange phone call to Jackie Kennedy—supposedly to console her.

In the recorded conversation, he tells the grieving widow that he wants to visit her and “spank her” around Christmas.

Jackie casually mentions taking “vitamin B shots”—code for the medical-grade methamphetamine that both she and JFK were reportedly addicted to.



Did you know JFK, Jackie Kennedy, AND Elvis Presley all had a 'Dr. Feelgood'?

Dr. Max Jacobson, their personal physician, was injecting them with "vitamin B" shots"—actually laced with meth. Presidents, world leaders, A-list stars—all hooked on his miracle treatments.

Dr. Max Jacobson: The Controversial "Dr. Feelgood" Behind President John F. Kennedy's Secret Treatments

Dr. Max Jacobson, widely known as "Dr. Feelgood," was a German-born physician who played a controversial yet significant role in the life and health of President John F. Kennedy and First Lady Jackie Kennedy during the early 1960s. Here's an in-depth look at Dr. Jacobson's practices, his treatments for the Kennedys, and the eventual fallout that ensued.

Born in Germany in 1900, Dr. Max Jacobson fled the Nazi regime in 1936 and established his medical practice on the Upper East Side of Manhattan. He became infamous for his so-called "miracle treatments," which earned him a clientele of high-profile individuals, including celebrities and politicians. His methods, however, were far from conventional and ultimately led to significant controversy.

Dr. Jacobson's most infamous patient was President John F. Kennedy, who relied on Jacobson's "IV Special" injections, which reportedly contained a potent mix of:

•Methamphetamine (28 milligrams)
•Vitamins and Steroids
•Human placenta
•Animal organs (e.g., monkey gonads, sheep sperm)
•Opioid painkillers
•Barbiturates

•Testosterone

Kennedy, who suffered from chronic back pain and other ailments, found immediate relief in Jacobson's injections, famously stating, "I don't care if it's horse piss. It's the only thing that works." The injections not only provided pain relief but also boosted Kennedy's energy levels, helping him to maintain a vigorous public appearance and enhance his performance during critical moments, such as the 1960 presidential debate against Richard Nixon.

Treatments for Jackie Kennedy
First Lady Jackie Kennedy also received similar treatments from Dr. Jacobson. Notably, before meeting Queen Elizabeth II, Jacobson administered an injection to help Jackie feel composed and energized for the high-profile event. Like her husband, Jackie became reliant on Jacobson's treatments during her time in the White House.

Frequency and Impact
Dr. Jacobson was a frequent visitor to the White House, with Secret Service logs indicating over 30 visits between 1961 and 1962. He also accompanied the Kennedys on international trips, including diplomatic visits to Paris and Vienna, ensuring they had access to his treatments at all times.

The Growing Controversy
While Jacobson's treatments initially appeared beneficial, the long-term effects were far more concerning. Kennedy's other physicians grew alarmed by Jacobson's methods, warning of the potential risks of addiction and erratic behavior. Over time, JFK's behavior became increasingly unpredictable, culminating in a severe psychotic episode in 1962, where he was reportedly found roaming naked and delirious in the Carlyle Hotel in New York.

Bobby Kennedy, deeply concerned about his brother's deteriorating state, took matters into his own hands. He had the contents of Jacobson's injections analyzed, uncovering the dangerous substances within. Armed with this knowledge, Bobby confronted President Kennedy and, along with other White House doctors, pressured him to cease Jacobson's treatments. This intervention marked a turning point, as JFK's decision-making and leadership notably improved after discontinuing the injections. His more stable health and clearer judgment were critical during pivotal moments, such as the Cuban Missile Crisis in 1962.

The exposure of Jacobson's methods led to widespread criticism, and his once-thriving practice began to crumble. Eventually, Dr. Jacobson's medical license was revoked due to his unorthodox and dangerous practices, ending his career. His impact on President Kennedy, however, remains a deeply controversial chapter in the history of the American presidency, raising questions about the hidden vulnerabilities of one of the most iconic leaders of the 20th century.

Who got JFK Hooked on Speed?

In the spring of 1962, President John F. Kennedy is said to have raced down a hallway of the Carlyle hotel stark naked. The incident (which would have jeopardized his presidency) was kept from the public. Also unbeknownst to the public, and Kennedy himself, was that he was hooked on amphetamines. More astonishingly, his supplier was a medical professional, Dr. Max Jacobson, whose dangerous remedies were inflicted upon a generation of New York's elite.

Born in 1900 in Fordon, Bromberg, then part of the German Empire, Jacobson, who was Jewish, moved to the United States in 1936 to flee the Nazis. There, he slowly built his practice and a reputation for himself. Known as "Miracle Max," the list of Jacobson's regular patients reads like a roll call of the 20th century's biggest icons:

Elvis Presley, Marilyn Monroe, Leonard Bernstein, Judy Garland, Humphrey Bogart,

Elizabeth Taylor, Cecil B. DeMille, and Liza Minnelli; writers like Tennessee Williams, Truman Capote, and Rod Serling, who created The Twilight Zone; and even Nelson Rockefeller.

Jacobson's most famous patient was John F. Kennedy (and his wife, Jackie). The doctor's relationship with the family was so close that he traveled with the then-president on Air Force One, made house calls to see him in Hyannis Port and Palm Beach, and visited the White House 34 times over the course of 20 months. His presence was so frequent that the Secret Service dubbed him "Dr. Feelgood," and the nickname stuck

Here is an old article by JFK Jr. in which he recounts the moment his mother, Jackie Kennedy, told him who killed his father. She expressed, "Your father was killed by his power-hungry Vice President, Lyndon B. Johnson who ordered the execution of his boss President JFK. So that he could seize control of the White House" ~ Jackie Kennedy Onassis ~

William Cooper exposes the assassination of JFK on LIVE TV

MAY 15th, 1991 RARE

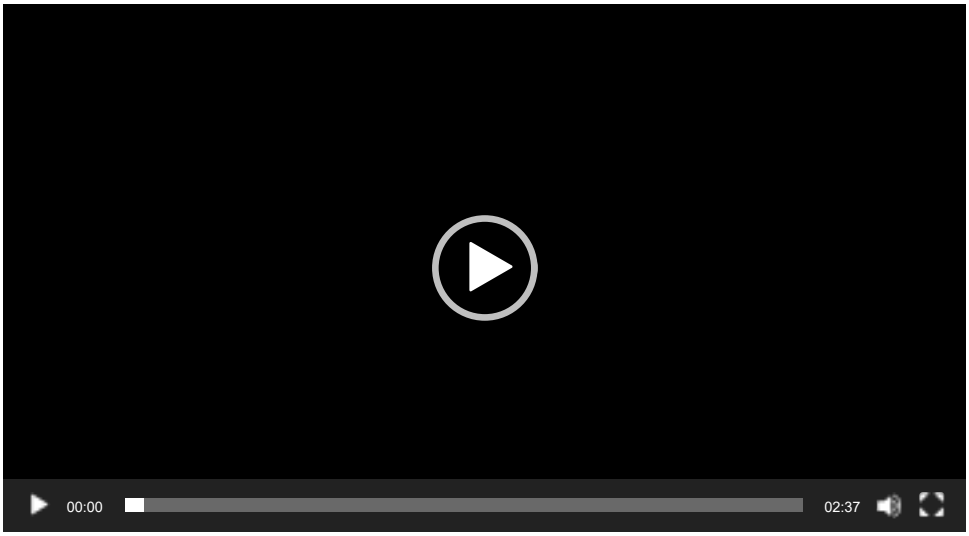
William Cooper tried to tell us and it was aired on Live TV in your living room. The government murdered him for telling truth. There is no better day to post this than now.

It's really simple: CO2 is our balance to oxygen. Less CO2 equals less oxygen.

"There's really no threat from increasing CO2… It's all a made up scare story."

Dr. William Happer, one of the world's most pre-eminent physicists, dispels some of the more prevalent falsehoods perpetuated by climate alarmists about CO2.

"We should all be very grateful that we have CO2 in the atmosphere… Life would die without CO2."



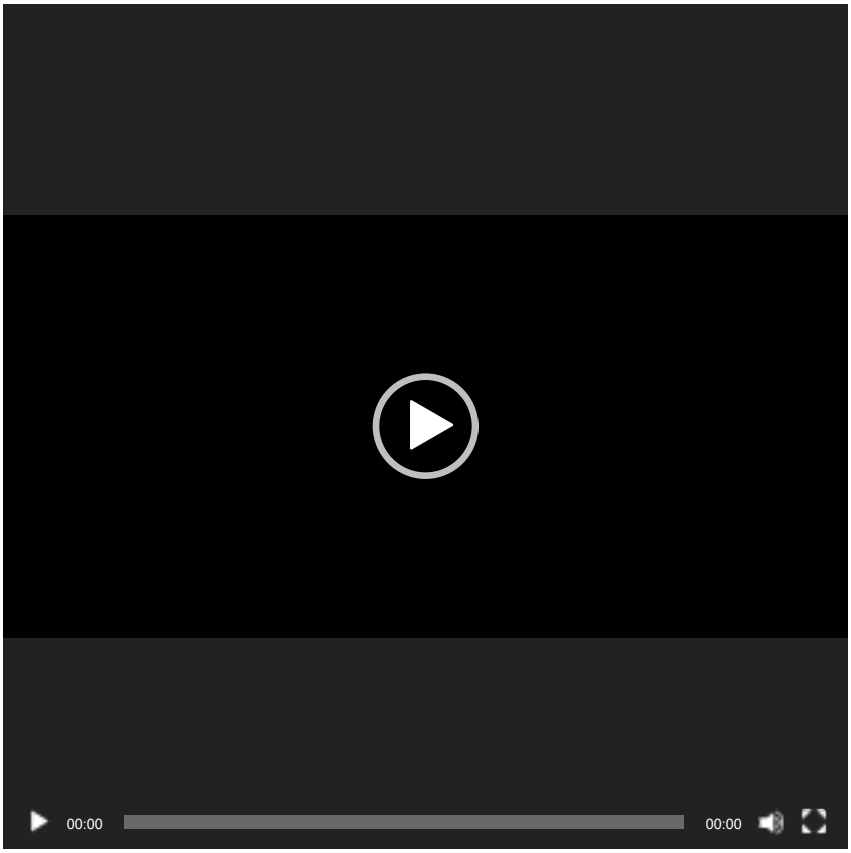
Proof the 2020 election was rigged by Mark Zuckerberg

The $500 million he used to capture swing states came with requirements that counties hold elections in a way that was AGAINST THE LAW in those states

"The money that Mark Zuckerberg was spending was money that you should, you should never have your elections controlled by a private individual — You cannot have agency capture. You cannot have a circumstance where the Pennsylvania law or the Wisconsin law says one thing, and these counties are going in and DOING SOMETHING ENTIRELY DIFFERENT because they're paid private funds to do something."

Trump Signs Executive Order to Eliminate the Department of Education

"Closing the Department of Education would provide children and their families the opportunity to escape a system that is failing them." –President Trump



"Has anyone who opposes Trump's dismantling of the Department of Education actually read its founding documents?

From the Department of Education Organization Act: "The establishment of the Department of Education shall NOT increase the authority of the Federal Government over education or diminish the responsibility for education, which is reserved to the States and the local school systems and other instrumentalities of the States."

"It is the intention of the Congress in the establishment of the Department to PROTECT the rights of State and local governments and public and private educational institutions…and improve the control of such governments and institutions over their own educational programs and policies."

By stripping the Department of its power, Trump is UPHOLDING the will of Congress, not defying it."

Exactly!

A little gossip for the readers:

Tiger Woods confirms he is in a relationship with Vanessa Trump.

Golfer Tiger Woods has announced he is dating Vanessa Trump, the former daughter-in-law of US President Donald Trump.

Vanessa, 47, was married to Donald Trump Jr for 13 years. The pair, who have five children, divorced in 2018.

On Sunday, Woods, 49, posted pictures of Vanessa and himself on social media saying: "Love is in the air and life is better with you by my side! We look forward to our journey through life together."

"At this time we would appreciate privacy for all those close to our hearts."

It is unclear what prompted the public announcement, but rumours of their relationship had been reported in gossip magazines in recent weeks.

Woods, who has won 15 major championships, is known for being guarded about his personal life after exposure of his marital infidelities and sex scandals damaged his public standing in the 2000s and affected his playing career.

He admitted himself into a sex addiction rehab clinic, and went through an acrimonious split from his first wife Elin Nordegren months later after six years of marriage. The couple have two children together.

US media outlets report that Tiger Woods' children attend the same school as Vanessa Trump's.

As the former wife of Donald Trump's eldest son, Vanessa had been a regular attendee at official events involving Trump's extended family during his first term in office.

The Counter Signal 0

This may be of special interest for our Canadian readers?

Since 1867, Canada has never been truly independent. It remains under the control of the British Crown, operating as a corporate entity registered under the authority of the monarchy.

The Governor General, appointed by the Crown, has the power to dismiss Parliament and override any Canadian law.

Canada’s legal system is subservient to British Common Law, meaning the ultimate authority over Canadian sovereignty still rests with the monarchy.

The Privy Council Office (PCO) is the Crown’s direct control mechanism over Canada’s government. It is not elected, it is not accountable, and it serves the monarchy’s interests first.

👉It oversaw the cover-up of vaccine injuries.

👉It obstructed Parliament’s investigation into the Winnipeg Lab scandal.

👉It ensures that Trudeau follows the Crown’s directives, not Canada’s democratic will.

When Trudeau speaks of “his country being at stake,” he is not talking about Canada’s independence

he is talking about protecting the interests of the Crown, the WEF, and the global power structure that keeps him in place.

All Members of Parliament, judges, military officers, and police in Canada take an oath to 👉“be faithful and bear true allegiance to His Majesty King Charles III, his heirs and successors.”

👉 They do not swear allegiance to the people, the Constitution, or the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

👉This is a feudal structure disguised as a democracy.

👉Canada’s highest offices are beholden to the Crown and globalist entities, not to its own citizens.

This explains why the legal system, law enforcement, and government agencies refuse to investigate their own crimes—because they serve the Crown's interests above all else.

Canada is not a sovereign republic like the United States

👉it remains a Crown Dominion, meaning that its officials swear allegiance not to the people, but to the British monarchy and its heirs.

The Uniparty Illusion
Controlled Opposition

Canada does not have an opposition in the traditional sense

👉it has a Uniparty system where all major political actors ultimately serve the same establishment.

👉 They perform theatrics in Parliament, arguing over policy details while ignoring the bigger issue—Canada is not sovereign.

👉They engage in controlled opposition, pretending to fight Trudeau while never exposing the real system of control.

👉They know that if they were to challenge the Crown's control, they would be silenced, de-banked, or politically destroyed.

The illusion of opposition keeps Canadians distracted, making them believe that voting will change the outcome, when in reality, all parties serve the same system.

Aiding and Abetting Crimes Against Canada

If Trudeau has committed acts of treason, election fraud, foreign collusion, and national sabotage, then any opposition party that refuses to expose this is complicit.

Canadian Criminal Code Violations:

👉Misprision of Treason (Section 50) – If an official knows of treason but fails to report or act on it, they are guilty as well.

👉Accessory After the Fact (Section 23) – If the opposition protects or conceals Trudeau's crimes, they are legally guilty.

👉Conspiracy (Section 465) – If multiple political parties collude to suppress the truth, this is an act of organized criminality.

LIBERAL party rule cannot continue without the opposition's cooperation.

If the opposition were real, they would:
👉 Call for an independent inquiry into Trudeau's election fraud.
👉 Expose the monarchy's direct control over Canada.
👉Demand that the Privy Council Office be dismantled.
👉Challenge Canada's status as a Crown-controlled dominion.

None of them are doing this.

That tells you everything you need to know.

If every major political party is compromised, then the burden of reclaiming Canada falls upon the people.

👉This is not just a fight against Trudeau
👉it is a fight against a system that protects him.
👉The opposition parties are gatekeepers, preventing real change while pretending to challenge power.
👉 The Canadian people must stop waiting for political heroes—because none are coming.
